FROM:

SUBJECT: Briefing Materials for the DDCI

The Special Assistant to the DDCI (SA/DDCI) has advised that the DDCI should be afforded at least two days to review materials submitted to him for his use in a particular meeting. The SA/DDCI mentioned that another directorate had recently provided materials, about the size of a couple of phone books, for the DDCI to review and digest the day before an important session with a high ranking official of another government agency. In order to avoid this situation, background material for the DDCI should be provided to the O/DDA in sufficient time so that it may be passed to the DDCI at least two days before the meeting is scheduled. Also, please ensure that the background information focuses on the issues involved. If you need any assistance on this score, please give me a call.
